(Loomis) Ranney, was born in Hardwick, Mass., June 10, 1849. His father was a physician in New York City, and he there received the chief part of his preparation for college. He had two years in the public schools of New York, three years in Doctor Smith s preparatory schools, and three years in the College of the City of New York. He entered Dartmouth in the spring of Sophomore year. Immediately after graduation he began the study of medicine in the University Medical College of New York, and at the same time, for some years, carried on the business of teaching, receiving a good salary to pay for his medical education. For one year he was a teacher in the public schools of the...
