

Outskirts: Women Writing from Small Places

By Emily A. Schultz

Sumach Press. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Outskirts: Women Writing from Small Places, Emily A. Schultz, They write from outside the urban centres, with depth, insight and quiet wisdom. From Pleasantville, Nova Scotia, to Nelson, British Columbia, to Frampton, Quebec, and Steinbach, Manitoba, these stories are stoic, frank, solid and unafraid. The fifteen writers in "Outskirts" speak to generations, to sex and death, animals and ancestry, to the passing on of flesh and blood in a world of water and stone. Their voices unexpectedly convey a sense of place and character, taking you into the lives of a small town, a rural farm, a coastal community. Without pretension, these writers document the human experience through unique literary sensibilities. Many have been published in such literary journals as Room of One's Own, The Fiddlehead, Pottersfield Portfolio, Zygote, sub-Terrain, Fireweed, Atlantic Books Today, NeWest Review and several have won awards for their short fiction. The stories in Outskirts explore the ways in which self and environment shift and grow together and tell us that even in a small place, a lot can happen. In a summer field, a moment of passion is recognised yet unspoken. The innocence of childhood is explored...
