Excerpt: .may come into their hands respectively in any one year. This clause does not in express terms modify or repeal the provisions of the act of 1870 before referred to; that in discharge of his duties under this act he and his securities in his official bond, his and their legal representatives, shall be subject to the same penalties, liabilities, motions and remedies, which he and they now are, or hereafter shall be subject to in relation to State-taxes. Does it have that effect by implication? May not the clause of each referred to stand consistent the one with the other? If so did not the law, which devolved upon the sheriff the duty of collecting the school-moneys, render his securities liable for their proper disbursements? The law at the date of said bond clearly devolved upon the sheriff the duty of collecting the school-moneys, but as to the responsibilities of the securities I have had more trouble in arriving at a satisfactory conclusion. I have examined with care the authorities bearing on the question cited by the counsel on both sides. But for the act of February 28, 1872, there would be no doubt upon the subject. The construction of it, asked on the part of the securities, is, that said words, and the circuit court of the several counties, or the judges thereof in vacation, shall require said sheriffs before proceeding to collect or receive said moneys to execute an additional bond,...
