By a providential foresight, which cannot be ascribed to chance, this marvelous faculty has been bestowed by nature even more freely upon the men of the people than upon those whose education and other advantages would seem to have fitted them for success in a field dominated so completely by brains. It is certainly a dispensation of Providence that has given us this wonderful balance-wheel of civilization, without which the rich would grow constantly richer and the poor as steadily poorer. But few men become rich, or even well-to-do from the mere labor of their hands 5 relying solely upon such exertions they must surely lose ground daily. The rich, however, living upon invested capital, need only spend a little less than their income to goon amassing wealth indefinitely. Thus the gulf between the two great classes would grow steadily wider and wider, the one enjoying unnecessary and even harmful luxuries, while the other was reduced to miserable poverty. But here Inventive Genius comes to the rescue. Ideas have ruled the world since it first gave birth to man. With ideas the poor man has risen from his poverty and taken high place with the noted men of every time. Reputation, fortune and honor have been won for the lowliest through the development of ideas. The story of the civilization of every country of the world is but the recounting of the triumphs of invention. Shall we not say, therefore, that our forefathers in declaring that ideas are property as much as...
