Corcoran is a rare gift to modern poetry. In an age of sterile nihilism, she offers us a dazzling display of rich fulsome images that assault the senses even as they cluster in familiar, resonant hollows. Tin pots holed by moonlight polkas refract the unexpected, a hum-coloured box exposes a guilt wracked conscience, red gloves flung like bloody rags in a sterile room or a heart expose our indulgences. Her trenchant and often exquisitely poignant observations create spiritual landscapes that speak in soft tones of nuanced understanding giving the reader ample room to meld in meditative pause. In elegant prosody she canvases the foibles of modern society with a wry, wizened sensitivity that harkens back to an age where the composition of language was at the very core of the poets craft. Somewhere Like Here is a rich tableaux for the senses and a tonic for the thoughtful reader. Corcorans fans are legion. This long-awaited landmark volume heralds the formal debut of one of the most significant writers of our time. Constance Stadler, editor and author of Sublunary Curse, Paper Cuts, Tinted Steam et. al. Somewhere Like Here is one powerful diamond of a poetry collection. A master of precise and livingbreathing imagery, Corcorans poems fixate, tantalize, and pierce their readers with genuine emotion. This book has been long awaited. Somewhere Like Here is a gem that will glisten sweetly from your bookshelf, an irresistible collection, one that you will return to again and again. April Michelle Bratten, co-editor Up the Staircase Quarterly. Corcorans writing is the poetic equivalent of a Joseph Cornell box. In a small space she takes an assemblage of familiar found objects and with deft hand...
